

Smithsonian
Science Education Center

HOW CAN WE PROTECT ANIMALS WHEN THEIR HABITAT CHANGES?
Salamanders in Trouble
Smithsonian Science for the Classroom™
© Smithsonian Institution
CREDIT: Emily Eng

Will the New Road Affect the Salamanders?

Hundreds to thousands of spotted salamanders travel to the pond every year. They do this to reproduce.

Salamanders migrate in the spring. They start when it gets warmer out. They travel when it is moist and cloudy.

